

Mac And Rory Grammar Stories

Prepositions of Time

(Happy Birthday Mac!)

It was Mac's birthday on Friday.

Rory, stop it!

I'm just testing it!

Mum took Mac for a walk, while Rory got the house ready with his friend, Paul.

Does this look OK?

Yeah...good. Where do you want me to put these toys?

Mac's friends arrived before Mum and Mac came home.

They're here! Hey guys, come on in!

Rory planned a party for him in the afternoon.

Can you come? Yes... in the afternoon. It's a surprise. Don't tell him. OK!

Mac got a shock when he came back.

Surprise!

Happy Birthday!

Rory and Paul took a break during "play-time".

They sure know how to party.

At half past four, Rory brought out food.

Get off me! Mac, help me!

And then at quarter to five, he brought out the cake.

Ah Mac, you have to blow harder than that!

Mac's friends stayed until 7.00pm.

Bye! Thanks a million!

Bye! Thanks so much for coming!...Thank goodness! I thought they'd never leave!

After the party, Mac and Rory cleaned up.

How did you and your friends make so much mess?

In the evening, the two friends were completely exhausted.

